

PLATE IX.¹

ASCOPODARIA.

		Diam.	Page
Figure	1.— Ascopodaria fruticosa , natural size,		42
„	2.—A single zoëcium and polypide,	×	25
„	3.—A single polypide, with the tentacles coiled within the open edge of the cup,	×	50
„	4.—Another polypide, with the edge of the cup con- tracted,	×	50
„	5.—A young polypide budding from the end of an old pedicel,	×	50
„	6.—A single polypide, showing the visceral organs,	×	110
„	7.—Barrel-shaped expansion at the base of a pedicel,	×	50
„	8, 9.—Longitudinal sections through a polypide,	×	110
„	10.—Portion of stem, with bases of peduncles,	×	25
„	11.—Longitudinal section of stem,	×	50
„	12, 13.—Transverse sections of stem,	×	50
„	14.—Portions of the parenchymatous tissue, from the centre of the stem,	×	360

¹ Several references used on this plate:—i, intestine; l, liver cells; œ, œsophagus; om, ovarian masses; r, rectum; s, stomach; t, tentacles.